Two Council Members Plan Opposition To Referendum Seeking Consolidation

Two Borough Council members — Democrat Nelson van den Blink, who is Council president, and Republican Charles Cornforth — announced this week the formation of a group to oppose consolidation of Borough and Township, and invited townspeople of both municipalities who agree with them, to sign up. (See ad, page 12.)

Voters of Borough and Township will decide the question at the polls November 6. The final report of the Joint Consolidation Study Commission, recommending consolidation, is available at the public library and both municipal buildings.

Formation of a pro-consolidation group of Township residents was announced last week. Announcement of a similar Borough group is expected shortly.

Ironically, the new group opposing consolidation will be a single entity composed of both Borough and Township citizens, while the groups supporting consolidation have formed separate organizations — one for the Borough, one for the Township.

Mr. Cornforth said residents of both municipalities had approached him, asking about an opposition group. Mr. Cornforth, opposing consolidation, was a minority of one on a study commission which issued a 1976 report favoring consolidation.

Mrs. van den Blink said that she, too, had been asked by citizens about an opposition group. The two Council members said they had waited until release of the Commission's final report before announcing their plans.

"I would illustrate my views," Mr. Cornforth said, "by putting it this way — 'Why do we have to be married? Why can't we just be friends?' Things have worked very well between Borough and Township, joint enterprises have succeeded. 'Why can't we just be friends?'"

"Representation is very important," Mrs. van den Blink said emphatically. "The Borough now has seven elected officials representing 13,000 people. The Commission recommends the same number — seven — for the two combined municipalities.

"I'm troubled about accessibility, and I don't think there would be the same degree of accessibility. There are benefits to smallness, and we shouldn't lose the kind of representation we now enjoy.

"I am also concerned about the quality and level of services and I'm not convinced they would be as good as they are now. Also, I don't believe the financial effects are clear: nothing in the report talks about the cost of transition, for example. I don't know when a government has ever gotten bigger and less expensive."

Mr. Cornforth said he was "surprised at the depth of feeling" of those who approached him, and he said they usually expressed apprehension about bigger government, remoteness from officials and greater cost.

"The Borough has 1.76 square miles," he said. "With consolidation, we'd be only ten percent of the Major Rift Develops on Alignment of Route 92-A Between Officials of Princeton and Montgomery

A northeast by-pass to divert through traffic from Princeton has been talked about for more than a quarter century. There always seems to be a reason — usually financial — why the state can't get around to it.

In recent weeks, the Department of Transportation has been expressing more interest than anyone can recall before; in fact, if the $475 million transportation bond issue passes the voters in November, the by-pass might come to pass. It is usually called 92-A, although it has several aliases.

The upsurge of state interest comes just at a time when two normally good neighbors — Montgomery and Princeton townships — are in the middle of a flare-up over 92-A. The disagreement is seen to be so sharp that Wendy Benchley, head of the Princeton Planning Board's circulation committee, told the full board last week that there is no point in face-to-face talks with Montgomery officials.

"The acrimony is such that we must wait until we can meet with them and with the state," she said.

That same evening, the board voted unanimously to ask the state for a public meeting early in September with all municipalities affected by 92-A.

The DOT says it wants to align the road according to a route set in 1972 (see map). It slices through the proposed Segal housing project in Montgomery and comes perilously close to two others, one already partly completed. Montgomery is understandably not happy.

Earlier this year, Princeton's Planning Board granted approval to developers Benedict Yedlin and Robert S. Kahn, each of whom had planned their subdivisions on the assumption that the 1972 alignment would prevail.

But for some reason — nobody seems to know why — Princeton's Planning Board wrote Montgomery in early June affirming an earlier understanding that 92-A would straddle the Montgomery - Princeton line, with a 150-foot right of way on each side.

This alignment brings 92-A so close that Mr. Yedlin lost a $225,000 house sale, and 43 Princeton residents, many of whom had bought property from Mr. Yedlin, petitioned the Planning Board to protest the alignment.

Hastily, the Planning Board wrote Montgomery to point out that total area, with the possibility that all seven of those representatives would come from the Township."

"The populations of Borough and Township are even, now," he continued. "It's hard to believe that will remain."

Mrs. van den Blink suggested that, since the two police departments are roughly at the same strength -- about 30 officers -- there would be a combined department of 60.

Protection Questioned. "But how would they be used?" she demanded. "The Borough may need more police than the Township. Would we have less protection than now?"

"I believe many of the disadvantages would be the same for the Township," Mr. Cornforth remarked, "although representation would be a Borough disadvantage."

Mrs. van den Blink said firmly that the group's campaign would be run "exactly like an election campaign."

"We both have very strong feelings about this," she declared. "It will be a 'doing' campaign, an 'activist' campaign using political campaign tools, perhaps doorbell ringing. This is the most critical decision facing this community in a long time. There is no mechanism to undo it, once it's done."

Volunteers Sought. "We hope to attract people who are willing to work," Mr. Cornforth commented.

So far, there is no financial structure. Flyers, brochures and newspaper advertisements probably represent the only expenses.

Asked whether other Borough Council members had joined them, Mr. Cornforth and Mrs. van den Blink said they had not been in touch with the others.

A telephone query after the announcement lined up Mayor and Council as follows:

Mayor Robert W. Cawley: "I will not be joining them. I am not prepared today to make a detailed statement, but I will do so after I return from vacation in early September."

Martin P. Lambarda: (running for re-election.) "I believe elected officials should stay out of it, keep an open mind, because the question needs a complete airing, and be prepared to do whatever the public wants. I will support one hundred percent whatever the electorate decides."

Richard Macgill: "I lean toward opposing consolidation, although I still have not thought it through yet."

Leona Medvin: "I certainly would not be part of an opposition group. Consolidation must be carefully considered and debated, but I lean toward it because I believe the future of Princeton depends on it."

Richard Woodbridge: (running for re-election.) "I plan to maintain a neutral position. I think it's important not to confuse the election with consolidation. An elected official should be able to represent the interests of the Borough either for a full three years -- if consolidation is voted down -- or as an interim person otherwise. Whom you elect to Council has no bearing on consolidation."

MOPEDS ARE HOT

On Weekly Theft Report. Mopeds, a target almost as inviting to thieves as 10-speed bicycles, are back in the crime news again. A dark blue model valued at $650 was taken from a front porch of a William Street residence sometime between last Wednesday and Friday.

An orange moped worth $200 was taken from the vicinity of 22 Chambers Street between 5:30 and 8:30 p.m. on August 7. The owner is or was a Township resident.

Ten-speed hikes were popular, too. A silver-colored, man's hike worth $200 was taken sometime overnight on Sunday from Charter Club, 79 Prospect Avenue. A clarinet valued at $200 and a guitar and case worth $175 were stolen from the same premises.

That same night a red 10-speed hike was stolen from the front hallway of a Murray Place residence. Its value was set at $100.

IBM Selectric typewriters, five of which were reported stolen last week, are another item high on the thieves' checklist. This week one was stolen -- from Green Hall on the University campus. An unlocked room was entered between 11 a.m. on Friday and 4 p.m. on Monday.

Other Thefts. A music box priced at $95 was stolen from Kalen's Fine Arts on Palmer Square at about 1:40 p.m. last Wednesday. Two suspected shoplifters escaped.

The University's Butler housing, off Harrison, was hit twice by burglars over the weekend. A wallet and checkbook were missing from one unit; some costume jewelry was taken from another.

Township Police reported two potted plants stolen from a house in the Mount Lucas Road area. The resident speculated that a neighbor did it. Police are investigating.

WINDOWS BROKEN

In Separate Incidents. Police in the Borough were investigating reports of broken windows at the Princeton Stained Glass Company on at 38 Spring Street. The proprietor reported that two windows were broken, apparently with drinking glasses.

A Township resident reported that a living room window was shattered by a blue marble, apparently fired by someone using a sling shot or pellet gun. The damage occurred at about 8:50 Monday evening.

TRENTON MAN CHARGED

Prescription Forged. Borough Police last Wednesday arrested David Piechowski, 22, of Trenton, and charged him with attempting to obtain drugs with a forged doctor's prescription.

The police said that the arrest stemmed from a report received earlier from the pharmacist at Marsh's drugstore at 168 Nassau Street. A man walked in with a prescription for some drugs, the pharmacist called the doctor whose name was on the form. The doctor could not verify the order and the customer left the store.

The defendant is scheduled to appear in Borough Court on September 5.

Delayed School Opening Possible If Building Is Not Safe Because of Halt in Construction

"Safety for the kids is our prime concern, and we'll make the building safe if we have to postpone the opening of school," declared school board president Robin Wallack on Tuesday — the day everybody hoped workers would be back on the high school remodeling job.

They weren't. But the school board has agreed to a contractors' request for a meeting this Wednesday at 3. Originally, in line with a clause in its agreement with the contractor, the board warned that workers must be on the job in seven days or the contractors would be turned over to the bonding companies. That seven-day period expired last Tuesday, August 6.

Because of vacations and the problem of finding a quorum, the board was unable to get together until this past Monday to decide whether to meet with the contractors, or send them a second seven-day notice. The second seven-day period need not follow immediately upon the first.

After this Wednesday's afternoon meeting with the contractors, the board will meet at 8 p.m. to decide what

Public Will Know

All meetings — past and future — related to the school board's difficulties with high school construction are closed sessions, allowed under New Jersey's sunshine law when litigation is being discussed.

However, school board president Robin Wallack said this week that after Labor Day, the board will hold a special public meeting to explain the problems faced by the board.

She has invited both mayors, members of the BRAC committee that recommended remodeling of the high school building, and members of the school-municipal liaison committee.

Mrs. Wallack also said that, in light of concerns expressed by electrical contractor Arthur Hahn Jr. in last week's issue of TOWN TOPICS, she will schedule another public meeting to explain the board's bidding procedures.

to do. Decisions will hinge on how the talks have proceeded, Mrs. Wallack said.

Construction at the high school halted in early May when Local 269, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, assigned "informational pickets" to the site in an effort to persuade employees of non-union Jaden Electric to join the union. Employees of other contractors, which are union employers, declined to cross the line.

The school board has filed suit against Local 269 for whatever damages accrue as a result of construction delay. J. Robert Hillier, the school board's architect, served the seven-day notice to the contractors.

The union is also subject to a show-cause order from Superior Court Judge Hervey S. Moore — granted at the board's request — to show why the union shouldn't be stopped from picketing the construction site. The union will appear before Judge Moore on Thursday, August 23.

In addition, the board has appealed the ruling of the state's Division of Building and Construction that it acted illegally in awarding the electrical bid to Jaden. The state says that Jaden was not pre-qualified, under New Jersey law.

Harriet Drive — damage unknown; and trees down on Madison Street and on the corner of Murray Place and Prospect Avenue.

Relatively few car accidents were reported during the storm. At 5:18 on Friday afternoon a car driven by Ralph E. Kjolien of 115 Longview was struck on Princeton-Kingston Road by a car driven by Elon Foster III, of 324 Burd Street, Pennington. Township police said that Mr. Kjolien was making a left hand turn into Carnegie Drive when the car following, driven by Mr. Foster, was unable to slow down sufficiently on the "wet and slippery" roadway.

The storm was severe enough to affect normal transmission of power even when the lines were not broken. At TOWN TOPICS, composing room operators turned off the computer typesetting equipment when irregular bursts of current began surging through the line.

At S. Barnabas Church in South Brunswick, a power surge burned out the church organ. A wedding rehearsal scheduled at 5 p.m. Friday proceeded without the traditional music. Another organ was brought in just in time for the ceremony on Saturday.

LAWN RENOVATION

with Sam deTuro
Woodwinds Associates

If you plan on doing any work on your lawn, you had better start soon! Late August and early September are the best times to seed or renovate poor areas.

One of the major reasons for failure in turf growth is the selection of improper varieties to begin with. When selecting lawn grasses, avoid bargain mixtures, and always select certified seed when available.

Kentucky Bluegrasses and Fine Fescues are the primary lawn grasses in New Jersey, although improved Perennial Ryegrasses have been successful as well.

Bluegrasses thrive in conditions of cool temperatures, good drainage and sufficient moisture, so growth slows and turf turns brown in hot, dry weather.

Fine Fescues on the other hand, can tolerate dry, infertile soil and sun or partial shade.

Perennial Ryegrasses grow quickly, and tolerate a wide range of growing conditions.

Important things to remember are removing thatch to allow better penetration of water; application of lime to improve soil structure; cutting at a mower height of approximately two inches to conserve moisture; use of a good, all-purpose insecticide to control as wide a range of lawn insects as possible; and finally, careful and timely use of a good fertilizer.

A vigorous, healthy lawn will not only give you the pleasure of seeing and enjoying its green expanse, but it can substantially reduce temperatures and act as nature's air conditioner!

WOODWINDS is happy to answer any questions concerning your trees and shrubs. Please call us at 924-3500.

No way, the Man said, although noting that the thermometer would record lower-than-normal readings for the rest of the week. Three days of sunny skies and a temperature range from 60 to the high 70s may be followed by rain Saturday afternoon and a Sabbath clearing.

GYM AND THE PARK

Progress in Both. The gym and the park remained in the news this week.

Although the state's Department of Community Affairs has approved the Borough's application for $22,110 toward renovation of the Borough Hall gym for senior citizen use, Council isn't quite ready to approve the agreement, Mayor Robert W. Cawley said this week.

The Township will consider again this Wednesday the Borough's request for help in remodeling the gym. Administrator Joseph R. Nini said Committee realizes that only "rough, ball-park figures" are available, but it wants as much information as possible on insurance and operating costs, the salary of the person the state says must be at the center full-time and the estimated costs of a Phase II.

The $22,110 is the state's contribution toward Phase I. Mayor Cawley said he hoped that much of Phase II would be work contributions from senior citizens skilled in various crafts.

The Senior Citizens Club is

Squall Drops Temperature 20 Degrees In 30 Minutes—Cold Sets Mark Sunday

It was a squall line, coming in ahead of a cold front, if you're wondering what toppled the giant redwood on your patio last Friday afternoon.

The temperature dropped 20 degrees in half an hour — from 90 to 70, Fahrenheit. And in case you hadn't noticed, it was cold Sunday.

Record cold, says David Ludlum of Science Associates, blowing on blue fingers. Went down to 56, he reports, a record cold for August 12 in this part of the world.

Over the three days of Saturday, Sunday, and Monday, Science Associates' Dan Mazzarella's rain gauge on Magnolia Lane took in 2.14 inches. When you consider that the month's rain through August 13 was only 2.80, that's a lot of wet.

The really cold air began to come Saturday morning — this was the actual cold front — and by 5 p.m., the rain had settled in, nice and comfy, for the week-end.

As the storm moved up the coast on Sunday, it made sure that clouds and rain stayed, and drew cool air down from New York and New England as well.

But Mr. Ludlum has other things on his mind. A casual TV reference to a hurricane called "David" that never really made it to hurricane status, has not caused him to have a low-pressure system at all. It wasn't even registered with the Miami Hurricane Center.

"So I still have a chance," he said gleefully. "I'm willing to wait until September for a really big Hurricane David. I want to go down in history."

also making plans for a fund-raising effort to begin after Labor Day. The club has almost 500 members, drawn from residents of Borough, Township, and even outlying communities.

This Thursday noon, Council expects to receive bids for the development of Quarry Park and if the engineer's office has a chance to study them before the 4 p.m. summer closing time at Borough Hall, Council may award the bid at a late afternoon meeting.

Mayor Cawley said the bids have been so prepared that only a part may be accepted, if the entire bid is too high. In addition, work schedules are left open. On an earlier invitation this year, only one bidder responded and his bid was too high.

TOO STEEP A SLOPE?

Ordinance Hearing Scheduled. Restrictions on building where there is a slope, will be discussed this Wednesday (8 p.m., Township Hall) at Township Committee's public hearing on its slope-development ordinance.

The ordinance, prepared at the request of the Planning Board by the board's attorney and Township attorney Edwin Schmiere, prohibits construction on any part of a residential lot with a slope of more than 25 percent. For non-residential development, the restriction is 15 percent.

"Construction," under the ordinance, means buildings, roads, driveways, parking areas and detention facilities.

Committee will also approve the contract with architect Jeremiah Ford for services related to the third phase of remodeling the Valley Road building, and in work session, Committee will once again discuss what kinds of remodeling it wants.

PROFESSOR BURNED

In Physics Lab Fire. An assistant professor of physics at Princeton University suffered second degree burns on his right hand Monday evening when a fire erupted during an experiment he was conducting in Jadwin Hall on the University campus.

The burns were not serious — Robert A. Austin was treated and released from Princeton Medical Center — and damage to the room and equipment being used was only slight.

Mr. Austin's experiment involved laser beams and the pumping of methanol through a plastic tube. The tube sprang a leak, Mr. Austin reached into the apparatus to unplug an electric pump, and a spark from the pump ignited the methanol which had leaked from the hose.

The professor summoned a graduate student, Fred Wamsley, who pulled a fire alarm and then put out the fire with a hand extinguisher.

The fire was out before University proctors reached the scene. Two Princeton fire trucks also raced to the physics building in response to the alarm, which was sounded about 5:05.

Township Tables Loitering Ordinance until Early September; Question Centers on Extent of Need for Police Enforcement

Uneasy about constitutional questions and the possible need for tighter definitions, Township Committee last Wednesday tabled the loitering ordinance until September 5. The vote was 2-1, Mayor Josie Hall voting not to table.

Committee also amended its land use ordinance over vigorous Planning Board protest, asked for more facts before deciding whether to chip in and help remodel the Borough Hall for senior citizens, learned of a citizen appeal from a Zoning Board undecision, and decided more dollar estimates on heating and cooling are required before final decisions can be made about remodeling Valley Road.

Although Township Police Lieutenant Anthony Pinelli emphasized that the police have nothing against the Dairy Queen in the Shopping Center, he did explain that teen behavior there prompted the police to ask for an anti-loitering ordinance. Teen-agers, drawn like moths to the small, brightly-lit corner, can be noisy. They have been known to throw beer bottles, their language is not always Victorian, they are said to have obstructed traffic and perhaps have kept away older customers who might want to buy a double-dip chocolate on a hot summer night.

South Africa Cited. Barbara Diamond, 393 Walnut Lane, declared the ordinance unconstitutional, and her son Jonathan said it could be compared to the assembly laws of South Africa.

As the ordinance now stands, Mrs. Diamond said, the only offense is to refuse to "move on" when police tell you to, and although today's Township police would always exercise reasonable judgement, what about the future?

She added that problems of traffic obstruction, beer drinking by minors and undue noise could be solved by laws already on the books, and she said perhaps police should patrol the area more frequently.

Lt. Pinelli protested that three or four patrol cars a night spend a total of many hours at the site. Present laws permit an officer to move in only after observing an actual incident, he said, and "with 40 kids, it's hard to pick out the one that's throwing the firecrackers."

How Trouble Develops. "I used to hang out, too, as a kid," he said. "We aren't against loitering — if a hundred or more kids are there and they all behave, it's no problem. But a father went there to get his 15-year-old daughter, and he got shoved, subjected to profane language. We had a scuffle, and an assault."

Princeton's Joint Civil Rights Commission also protested the measure. For the American Civil Liberties Union, Estelle Kuhn said the ordinance would punish the whole group for one person's action. It also gave too much discretionary power to the police, she said.

Committee member Hugo Hoogenboom assured young Diamond that Committee in no way had South Africa in mind. He asked Mrs. Diamond how the municipality could deal with the problem.

"You need to weigh the problem against the rights involved," she replied. "You can't disperse a crowd if you don't know whether they've done anything. You may just have to live with it."

Chief Porter's Viewpoint. "But the people who live nearby complain!" exclaimed Police Chief Frederick Porter. "We know this town, the people. Unless there is a good reason, nobody is thinking of moving people around."

Municipal attorney Edwin Schmierer explained that the ordinance doesn't prohibit loitering — which would be unconstitutional — and doesn't apply to assembly for demonstrating or speech-making. The measure has been adapted from an East Orange ordinance which was declared constitutional by the New Jersey Supreme Court.

Ordinance Amended. The land use amendment excises the part of the ordinance allowing the Planning Board to go before the Zoning Board as a formal intervener. It all goes back to the request of Nassau Medical Arts for permission to put up an office building where Mountain Avenue, Bayard Lane and State Road convene. The Planning Board, alarmed at such a possibility, sent its attorney to the Zoning Board hearings where he was allowed to present the Planning Board's case.

However, Superior Court Judge George Y. Schoch ruled that the Planning Board had no right to be an intervener; and Committee decided it would be best to remove that part of the ordinance.

Planning Board vice-chairman Hans K. Sander, pleading for retention of the intervention, said the Zoning Board wasn't always familiar with long-range planning. "Citizens don't often show up at hearings," he told Committee, "and we're a public-interest board."

Wendy Benchley, Elizabeth Hutter, Ralph Phillips — all Planning Board members — and the board's attorney, Allan Porter, also spoke.

"I'm troubled by the idea of the Planning Board operating as an independent party," said Mr. Hoogenboom, who sits on the Board as Committee's representative. "The function of the Planning Board is to call attention to planning issues; the job of Zoning is to consider them." He acknowledged that there was no one to represent the public interest — before Planning, as well as Zoning Boards.

Compromise Adopted. Committee member Kate Litvak proposed a compromise which Committee adopted: the Planning Board shall have the power to invite — but not require — an applicant to come before it, while the board is preparing its recommendation to the Zoning Board.

"I hate to think you're being intimidated by just one judge," said Mrs. Hutter.

"It's one gigantic step backward for planning if this goes through," Mr. Sander said morosely, before the 3-0 vote of adoption.

Six neighbors of the six-unit housing development approved for Brenwood Associates' property at State Road and Ewing have appealed to Township Committee from the Zoning Board's affirmative vote.

Appellants cite the impact of the six units on local traffic patterns, the environment and the residential nature of neighboring properties. A date for hearing will be set after the appellants give Committee a transcript of the hearings.

The Borough is asking the Township to share expenses in remodeling the Borough Hall gym for senior citizen use. The Phase I amount is $7,390. Committee members decided they wanted more information on operating costs and the second phase of remodeling.

"It's not that I don't want to do it," explained Mayor Hall. "I just want to know what we're getting into."

"I want to know that it's worthwhile, and not a bottomless pit," said Mrs. Litvak.

The cost of operating heating and cooling systems in the Valley Road Building will be submitted to Committee this week in estimate form by Brownsworth, Mosner, and Doran, consulting engineers for architect Jeremiah Ford. The school board has moved into its remodeled part of the old school building; now, the Township must decide how much remodeling to do for its quarters.

2 MEETINGS SCHEDULED

On Parking Needs. The "where" and "how" of parking are all that remain to be settled on that subject between the Borough and Palmer Square, Inc., Mayor Robert W. Cawley said late Tuesday.

The two entities will meet this Wednesday and Thursday in closed sessions to try to resolve the "where" and "how." The number of parking spaces is no longer an issue, Mayor Cawley said. He told reporters Monday that the Borough hopes to hold fast to two garages, and not be forced into a third.

The key to the parking problem, the mayor said, is that only 30 percent of Central Business District employees need their cars at hand all day because they have in-and-out jobs.

"I will push for using the state's computer program as a way of lining employees up for car or van pools," the mayor said. "We're prepared to give preferential treatment to employees who form those pools."

Distant fringe parking doesn't seem appealing to him, the mayor continued.

"I don't see somebody who lives on Valley Road and works on Nassau Street driving all the way to Jadwin Gym and taking a bus."

"The merchants will get their garage, and opened-up parking for customers," the mayor predicted, "but they in turn must get their employees not to park downtown or to form car pools."

"We're still wrestling with the Playhouse question," the mayor continued. "If we want to know about acoustics, we have to wait until October for the New Jersey Symphony to play there, and I'm not sure we can wait." (For a letter on the subject of acoustics at the Playhouse, see page 12.)

SUMMER LIFE

At Robeson Center. With only a few weeks left in the summer, the Paul Robeson Community Center is planning a Block Party and Community Day to mark the end of the season.

Meanwhile, the Paul Robeson Girls will meet for basketball this Wednesday at 5:30, followed by the "15-18" men's team playing Hamilton at the John Street Blacktop. A social mixer for the visiting team will follow in the Center's upstairs auditorium.

The Block Party is scheduled for Saturday, September 8. There will be fashions by Brooks Boutique, music by the Good Times Band and disco by Sunrise Productions. A basketball contest and a Gong Show are on the program also, and there will be a display of crafts. The Center is asking for volunteers to help with refreshments.

During the summer, the Center has been running a Day Camp for 19 youngsters ranging in age from six to 14 years. Divided into age groups, the campers have been engaged in photography, music and drama, modern dance, boxing, arts and crafts, tutorial work, swimming in the Community Park program, and two days a week of tennis with volunteers from the Youth Tennis Association of Princeton.

On Wednesday evenings, the center offers courses in the martial arts of tai-chi, and on week-ends there is disco.

Financial Help Received. Contributions from residents of the community continue to come into the Center. The lounge, decorated through a contribution of $600 from the Unitarian Church, is available for community groups who need space for meetings, coffees or teas.

The upper auditorium, now a light blue, was painted by volunteers from Circle K under Barry Williams, and is also available for community use. Painters, in addition to Circle K, were Jacqueline Swain, Henry Drewry, Geraldine Boone, Malcolm Ryder and Theresa Lyons.

Use of the Center's auditorium, lounge or meeting rooms is free of charge, but organizations using the facilities are asked to make a donation.

A room divider donated by Doris Burrell, will be used as a prop for plays to be presented in the auditorium. Vance Williams, of Environmental Building Services in Trenton, donated half the cost of new Venetian blinds for the auditorium. His firm, which has had the cleaning contract for the building since October, donated $250 for door mats to protect the floors in bad weather.

The Princeton Patrolmen's Benevolent Association has given $200 to buy boxing equipment; E.R. Squibb donated an I.B.M. Typewriter and Paul Brown a pool table. The gift of the pool table has been reported before. It is reported again because it is so large and heavy that it has not yet been picked up and moved to the Center.

CROWLEYS HOMELESS
After Lawrenceville Fire. Mr. and Mrs. James G. Crowley and their daughters, Kate, 19, and Sarah, 17, escaped injury early Friday morning when a fire destroyed their home at 29 Hendrickson Road in Lawrenceville.

Mrs. Crowley, a former president of the Lawrence Township Board of Education, said she had been asleep about 90 minutes when she was awakened by the shrill whine of a smoke detector located in the second-floor hall of the two-story, CapeCod-style house.

She woke her husband, the executive vice-president of the Delaware Valley United Way, and shouted to the two daughters to get out of the house. A third daughter, Kerry, 21, was staying with friends the night of the fire.

The family watched as the Lawrenceville Fire Company fought the blaze for more than two hours. When it had run its course, the family's eight-year-old dog, Rags, was found dead on the living room floor.

Most of the family's possessions were lost. No dollar estimate was made of the items damaged by the fire and smoke or the water used by the firemen. Among the items destroyed were the paintings of Kate Crowley, a student at the Philadelphia College of Art.

TV Set Blamed. Lawrenceville Fire Chief Earl Wilbur and Fire Marshall John Lee theorized that the fire began in defective wiring in an old black and white television set kept on a kitchen counter.

Firemen said the smoke alarm unit, installed several years ago, was responsible for getting the family out alive. "The firemen told us that if we had another detector in the kitchen, we might have caught the fire sooner," Mrs. Crowley told reporters.

After the fire the family was sheltered in the home of Mrs. Crowley's mother, Mrs. Crawford Jamieson of Titus Avenue, Lawrenceville.

CYCLIST HOSPITALIZED
Struck By Car. A 14-year-old Hightstown boy who suffered leg injuries August 6 when he was struck by a car while riding his bicycle along Quaker Road was reported in satisfactory condition this week in Princeton Medical Center.

Brian Sutton was riding north on Quaker Road just behind his brother, Jim, at about 1:40 p.m. when the accident occurred. Township Officer James Vandermark, who investigated at the scene, reported that the driver of the car, Samuel M. Lombardo of Trenton, said he was traveling in the same direction as the bicyclists when Brian seemed to veer to the left and into the car's path.

The injured youth said he had heard the car coming and stayed to the right.

"The rider's left leg took the brunt of the impact," the police report stated. "The bicyclist apparently slid back over the hood of the vehicle, striking the windshield with the left side of his head and was thrown back onto the roadway when the vehicle stopped."

The brother did not witness the accident.

Motorcyclist Luckier. A 62-year-old Somerset man was treated and released last Thursday from the Medical Center for injuries suffered when he lost control of his motorcycle on Cherry Valley Road between Heather Lane and Province Line Road.

The road was dry and the weather was clear when the accident happened, at about 4:30 p.m. "The driver didn't remember anything that happened about the accident," reported Township policeman Mario Musso.

SUMMONS ISSUED
After Route 206 Mishap. A Pennsylvania resident was charged with careless driving and two area residents were treated at Princeton Medical Center following a three-car crash Saturday evening at 5:09 on Route 206.

Township police said that a car driven by Nannette M. Drake of Lewisburg, Pa., traveling south on Route 206 near Cherry Hill Road, skidded into the northbound lane and struck cars operated by Robert J. Praisner of Bedminster and William A. Geoghan Jr., of 33 Montgomery Avenue, Rocky Hill. Mr. Geoghan and a passenger in his car, Eileen M. Geoghan, of Mercerville, were treated at the Medical Center. Patrolman John Clausen investigated.

Crash on Alexander. Merewyn McEldowney, of 7 Princeton Place, Princeton Junction, was treated at the Medical Center after the car in which he was riding was struck from behind by another car on Alexander Street, between Faculty Road and University Place. The mishap occurred shortly after 8 a.m. on August 7.

Roberta A. Shesko of Allentown told police she was stopped in the road because construction equipment was blocking the way when her car was hit in the rear by a vehicle operated by Geoffrey T. Ryan, of RD 3, Brunswick Pike.

Parking Lot Mishap. Debra Dowe, of 100½ Leigh Avenue, and Gail White, of 31 Green Briar Row, were treated and released from Princeton Medical Center last Wednesday after the car in which they were passengers was struck by another car in the Tulane West parking yard.

Police charged Barry L. Blaine of East Windsor with careless driving and leaving a private driveway without due caution. The other car, operated by Porlia A. Edwards of 29 Green Street, was towed from the scene.

BUG PLUS A BEE...
Equals Two Accidents. Two drivers apparently preoccupied with insects buzzing about in their cars were involved in minor accidents in the Township last week. Both drivers ended up with tickets from Township police.

April Carnevale, 17, of 106 Leabrook Lane, was entering the left turn lane on North Harrison Street at Valley Road August 7 when her attention was diverted by a bug which had landed on her leg. Her car struck one driven by Taylor A. Marrow Sr. of Holly House, which in turn hit one driven by Catharine B. Gager of 200 Cherry Valley Road. No one was injured, but the Marrow car — the one in the president of the PAAA, was most responsible for establishing the scholarship fund in 1975, which now totals about $14,500. The name of the fund was recently changed to culation. New Jersey Common Cause has already started to lobby the General Assembly which will take office in January, 1980.The 200-plus candidates for the lower house of the Legislature are now receiving questionnaires covering areas of interest to Common Cause.

"The responses from candidates serve three purposes," said Art Reinstein, Campaign '79 chairman. "We learn the positions of candidates, we get commitments to the Common Cause position, and we identify possible sponsors of next year's legislation."Candidates are being asked about issues of long-standing interest to Common Cause, and issues which the organization has recently become involved in. Lobby disclosure, public financing of elections, civil service reform and legislative and congressional redistricting are now before the New Jersey Legislature.Another question concerns the presentation of passed bills to the governor. Because the Legislature has allowed the Governor to delay action on passed bills for many months, Common Cause has brought suit to clarify the constitutional requirement that bills must be acted upon within ten days.Next year, Common Cause will press for reform of thepresent method of filling legislative vacancies.
Because of the expense involved in special elections, legislative vacancies may go unfilled for long periods.
Common Cause supports legislation which provides for the filling of vacancies by temporary appointment.The lobby group also plans to submit a bill which defines the term "public member," as it refers to certain members of state boards which regulate the professions. Because there are no criteria for these members, there is no assurance that they will represent the public instead of the regulated profession.
After the questionnaires have been returned, the citizens' group will publicize the results.LIVE ON A STREAM?Booklet Available. "The Stream and the Landowner," a 19-page booklet by William Whipple Jr., is for sale at Township Hall for $1.General Whipple did a stream study for the Township and the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association under the auspices of the Office of Water Research and Technology of the Department of the Interior. He is director of the Water Resources Research Institute at Rutgers.
The booklet for property-owners was prepared at the suggestion of Peggy McNeill, head of the Joint Environmental Commission, who has been active in water conservation measures for many years.The conclusion underscored by General Whipple in his booklet is that property-owners should be "very careful" about tampering with the banks or bed of a stream."During storm flows, great forces are active," he warns,
"and the results may be costly to you and to others.""If a neighbor starts work on the stream bed or banks, or deposits material which appears to be potentially harmful, don't hesitate to discuss the matter with him," General Whipple advises. "If he persists in action which you consider improper, take the matter up with a Township or county official."In New Jersey today, he points out, there is a great deal of research and planning going on to safeguard the state's rivers and streams.
General Whipple urges citizens to take an interest in streams and to attend meetings where water quality, flood tendencies and erosion potential are under discussion.For property-owners who live along streams — and these

Drivers Convicted of Intoxication Shown a Straighter Path By Judge's Order to Attend Alcoholics Anonymous Meetings

From time to time, in TOWN TOPICS police court stories, there is a brief, matter-of-fact sentence reporting that a drunk-driving offender has been sentenced by Judge Philip Carchman to attend meetings of Alcoholics Anonymous.

It's been about three years since Judge Carchman, who serves both Borough and Township, began requiring attendance at A.A. meetings. In that time, about 100 men and women of all ages have participated in the one-hour Saturday morning program Judge Carchman set up, with the co-operation of Alcoholics Anonymous, in the Borough Hall court-room.

"Essentially, it's a standard A.A. meeting," explains the magistrate, "but it's held in the court-room and that is important because it presents the court as a vehicle for rehabilitation."

A defendant before Borough or Township court found guilty of any offense (not just driving) in which the use of alcohol is a relevant factor will be sentenced to attend the Saturday morning A.A. meeting for six months to a year, as a condition of probation. Anyone may go on attending, after that period has passed.

True Dedication. There is a sign-in system, and attendance is monitored by volunteers from A.A. It doesn't cost the municipality anything -- the group even made a contribution to the Borough for coffee accidentally spilled on the rug.

"Alcoholics Anonymous has the most dedicated workers you can imagine," Judge Carchman says gratefully. "Their entire lives are wrapped up in A.A., and we are the beneficiaries."

"One of the young founders of this Saturday morning group -- he's left Princeton now -- remembers coming before Ted Tams when he was magistrate in the late '60s. Judge Tams gave him the kind of break that enabled him to get hospital care. He straightened out his life and came back to lead this program -- in the same court-room where he had been sentenced as an offender."

The magistrate has seen a wide variety of residual benefits for people who go to these Saturday morning meetings.

"Many youths meet people -- these A.A. volunteers -- for the first time who really care about them. One young guy, through people he met at the A.A. meeting, got a job, left an unhealthy living situation and told me later that he was generally staying out of trouble."

A Step in Time. Often, Judge Carchman points out, there is no deep-seated alcohol problem -- yet.

"But this is the first time!" people will complain to me. Well, they go to those meetings and listen to what other people say, and maybe they, themselves, are saved from the brink."

Most of the offenses are related to driving, and the state's Division of Motor Vehicles has approved Princeton's program as part of its mandatory rehabilitation program for drivers who have lost their licenses through drunken driving and are required to undergo rehabilitation.

It's a good program, Judge Carchman says thoughtfully, but he adds, "Yes, some have to go through it again. It's not fool-proof."

Wanted: More Police
Hoping to fill four vacancies in its ranks with "dedicated young men and women," the Princeton Borough Police Department is holding a written examination for prospective officers Thursday, September 6, at 6 p.m. in Princeton High School.

The examination is open to anyone between the ages of 18 and 35 who is a citizen of the United States and a resident of New Jersey; who possesses a New Jersey driver's license; and who has 20-20 vision with corrective eyeglasses and normal hearing in both ears.

Each candidate must pass the written examination, a medical examination, and a strenuous physical fitness test, as well as undergo a thorough character investigation.

The starting salary for Borough patrolmen in the proposed new contract is $14,650. The position also offers paid vacations, free hospitalization, and other fringe benefits.

was born in Trenton and lived there until he moved with his wife to Cranbury and then, in 1927, to their present home at 6 North Mill Road in West Windsor Township. Mr. Chamberlin was first elected to township clerk in 1937 and held that position under both the Republican and Democratic administrations. He was always available to help someone who needed it.

The winning name, selected by the township Parks and Nature Committee, was submitted by Karen Baumel of 22 Stonelea Drive in Princeton Junction.

Lee Bristol Mourned.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
I wish to express on behalf of the Westminster Choir College community, our profound sense of sorrow and loss at the untimely death of Dr. Lee Hastings Bristol, Jr., president emeritus of the college.

He served with great distinction as president of this college from 1962 to 1969. More than that, however, he was devoted in his service to the college and to the Westminster Choir over many years as a trustee prior to his tenure as president, and as a friend and benefactor in the years since.

His diverse and extraordinary talents as a musician and leader enabled him to give inspiration and pleasure to thousands in this country and abroad. We join with his countless friends in conveying to the family our deep sympathy.

Our Thanks for Lee Bristol.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Lee Bristol is dead. Princeton has lost a cheerful voice. A music man of startling talent, he gave himself to this community in hundreds of roles — on stage and off. He made life sing for us all.

At the last, as he was compiling a book of graces sung before meals, we now give thanks for him.

Acoustics 'Barely Adequate.'

To the Editor of Town Topics:

We understand that we've been quoted to the effect that the acoustics of the Princeton Playhouse could be made by electronic means to approach those of Carnegie Hall for under $10,000. Neither of us said it, and it isn't true. The acoustics of the Playhouse at present are barely adequate as a sound motion picture theatre and certainly not suitable as a theatre for the performing arts.

The situation could be improved with acoustic electronics and a new acoustic ceiling and walls, but it would be a substantial undertaking. Princeton University retained expert consultants to deal with the Playhouse acoustics in 1974, and we know of no technological advances that would alter their negative conclusions.

Sunday Gas Sales Needed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

We hear a great deal about the importance of shopping right here in Princeton. I agree — but not "never on Sunday" — rather, never on Saturday or Sunday.

Every weekday I drive to my duties in Trenton. Every day I pass gas stations marked 83.9 or 89.9. However, I pay the roughly $1, since I do not enjoy waiting in line for a good part of an hour.

The odd-even day program may be a good idea generally, but it does not apply to Princeton with its five-and-a-half day week. That is why, even in the middle of the week, I get my gas in Trenton often with a mere gallon left in the tank.

I don't know the economics of running gas stations. I do know that I could have saved trouble and the expense of help some days when the income did not warrant it, but I stayed open since I had a responsibility to the community.

Perhaps the people in Ocean Grove could take a lesson from Princeton on how to beat the automobile drivers. Today I learned to be thankful for Mary Watts. I will remember her.

CONSOLIDATION?

August 15, 1979

Dear Residents of Princeton Borough and Princeton Township:

We have been asked by concerned citizens to help organize a non-partisan group which is opposed to consolidation of Borough and Township, a group to preserve our two municipalities as independent but co-operating entities.

The purpose of such a group is to assure that the public is given the other side of consolidation from that advocated by the Consolidation Study Commission in its final report.

We believe that many in our two municipalities want to see both sides of the consolidation question aired completely. Already a Township organization to promote consolidation has been formed. Without the formation of a counter group, the other side of consolidation will not be adequately presented and our two municipalities may be consolidated by default.

If you are one who has serious reservations about consolidation and are willing to work with a non-partisan group to assure that consolidation's other side will be told, won't you please call one of us or send a card?

Lee H. Bristol Jr. of 210 Mercer Street and Bay Head died August 10 in the Upstate Medical Center in Syracuse, N.Y., after an illness of several months. He was 56 years old and was president emeritus of Westminster Choir College.

A man of prodigious energy, enthusiasm and talents, Dr. Bristol had a distinguished multi-faceted career as a business executive, college president, writer, composer, organist and active churchman. From 1969-73, he served as vice-chairman and executive secretary of the Joint Commission on Church Music of the Episcopal Church. He came to that post after seven years as president of Westminster Choir College and before that was 11 years in public relations and advertising with Bristol-Meyers Company, a firm co-founded by his grandfather.

Dr. Bristol was a lay preacher in the Episcopal Church and probably the first American layman ever to speak four times from the pulpit of Westminster Abbey. He served as director, vice-president and president of the Laymen's Movement for a Christian World headquartered in Rye, N.Y., and has been a member of the board of A Christian Ministry in the National Parks since 1974. For the past nine years, he had been the annual Lenten preacher at St. Bartholomew's Church in New York City.

He was a member of the Music Commission of the Episcopal Diocese of New Jersey and twice a deputy to the General Convention of the Episcopal Church. He was awarded the Bishop's Medal of Honor, Diocese of New Jersey, in 1963.

Versatile Musician. An active member of the American Guild of Organists, he took particular delight in playing the organ at All Saints' Church in Bay Head on summer Sundays for 30 years. After his retirement from the presidency of Westminster Choir College in 1969, he designed and built an organ studio and office beside his house in Princeton that was his pride and joy.

Endowed with a resonant speaking and singing voice and a flair for entertaining others, Dr. Bristol was known for his polished performances in Gilbert & Sullivan operettas, notably as Sir Joseph Porter in "H.M.S. Pinafore" and Koko in "The Mikado." He was widely sought as a speaker and often played the piano to illustrate his talks.

Princeton's circulation Master Plan was still being worked on, and Montgomery should not assume that anything was firm yet. Once again, it's a case of nobody knows why, but the letter seems never to have reached the Montgomery Planning Board and on July 30, that board unanimously drew on its Master Plan a 92-A alignment straddling the border.

"You know, 92-A doesn't do anything at all for Montgomery," says Montgomery Administrator Donald Vandergrift. "Princeton is refusing to recognize that the townships around it are giving up a lot of land for its benefit. Sure, I know how bad traffic is on Nassau — I live just off Nassau (on Maple Street)."

Nelson Thompson, of the Montgomery Planning Board, attended Princeton Planning Board meetings when Mr. Yedlin's application was being heard, but he said on July 30 that by the time his Planning Board was in a position to represent Montgomery, it was too late. He added that in his view, Princeton Planning Board was assuming that 92-A was to go entirely to Montgomery, "which is completely contrary to the written letters."

"We have not handled this well," Mrs. Benchley told Princeton's board last week. "We must be more perceptive of Montgomery and of Rocky Hill."

That was the meeting at which Charles Stabler, of the Rocky Hill Planning Board, charged that the real reason Princeton wanted Montgomery to move the boundary alignment was "to bypass that $225,000 house you OK'd."

And Mr. Vandergrift says, "Well, Princeton is asking us to bail them out."

A Similar Viewpoint. The phrase has been used in Princeton, too. The Segal Development Company has talked informally with the Montgomery Planning Board about 108 units of low and moderate-income housing on 144 acres near the Princeton Hill development, part of which is already occupied.

Uneasy about high densities right across the border, Princeton Township officials have said the purpose of the Segal development is to "bail out" Montgomery, so it can meet Mt. Laurel requirements for lower-cost housing. The straddle alignment cuts through the Segal development. It is close to Carl Geiger's proposed six-units per acre condominium plan for 74 acres.

"I am very, very discouraged by the vacillation of the Princeton Planning Board regarding 92-A," Montgomery Township Mayor Ray Porterfield told his Planning Board July 30. "We have bent over backwards to try to accommodate them. We had taken 92 out of the Master Plan for the simple reason we did not see it doing anything for Montgomery. In the spirit of co-operation, we endorsed 92 and brought it back into the Master Plan, based on the fact that it would straddle two townships."

He added that he did not see any co-operation with Princeton on the widening of Route 206, either.

Airport Affected. Meanwhile, state engineers have said that the boundary alignment is not acceptable.

"No alignment is really good," Mr. Vandergrift says glumly. For example, 92-A will mean taking part of the airport runway and extending it 150 feet in the other direction to make up the difference.

In the end, theoretically, the DOT can take whatever land it wants to build on whatever alignment it wishes, regardless of what is on whose Master Plan, but Mr. Vandergrift points out that, although Montgomery officials urged the state years ago to acquire property, it has not done so.

"I don't believe that feelings between us and Princeton are so high," he says. "There does seem to be no answer: Montgomery is firm and Princeton is saying, 'no way!'"

Hunger Project Seeks Community-Wide Support; Fund-Raising Crop Walk Is Set for October 21

"What can I, a single person, do to end world hunger?"

The question is at the root of The Hunger Project, whose goal is to end world hunger in 18 years. Here in Princeton, "working out of the trunks of our cars, without office space," a core group of 10 is spreading the word, seeking individuals willing to make a commitment.

"All the studies show that, given the political will, hunger can be ended," emphasizes John Coonrod, a dedicated, serious young physicist who goes from his Plasma Physics Lab desk to the trunk of his car for literature to place on tables set up in Palmer Square, the Princeton High lunch-room (once school starts up again), Princeton University's Commons, Trenton Commons.

The problem and the commitment are long-range; short-range, Princeton workers in The Hunger Project are planning for the October 20-21 week-end symposium and fair -- "Discover the Alternatives." That's when, all day long, you can visit booths, see videotapes, participate in discussions, meet Dick Gregory.

Crop Walk in October. Sunday, October 21, is the Crop Walk. This year, Dr. Coonrod hopes, it will involve not only church groups and fauna and man and his habitat. The maximum number of entries, four per person, may be divided among any of the four categories. Only 8 x 10 black and white mounted glossies will be accepted.

Label the reverse side with name, address, phone number and the location and category of the entry. Mail entries to the Watersheds Association, RD 1, Box 263A, Pennington, 08534. Prints will not be returned unless accompanied by a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Judges for the Contest will be portrait photographer Susan Stember, Kenneth Kaplowitz of Trenton State College and Elizabeth Boyd of the University Store. For more information, call 737-3735 or 737-3177.

NOSTALGIC TRAIN RIDE

On Black River & Western. The Lambertville Historical Society is planning an historic train ride on the Black River & Western Railroad on Saturday, September 8.

Billed as "The Historic Express," a vintage passenger train with coaches dating to 1923 will leave the old depot at Lambertville at 6 p.m. and travel southward to a spot overlooking Wells Falls to the west and the historic Delaware and Raritan Canal to the east, where a cocktail party will be held with hors d'oeuvres served by members of the society.

youth groups as in previous years but "every department in the University, every company in the area -- something like the Hospital Fete."

It will be a ten-mile trek with walkers obtaining pledges of money for the distance they walk. But Dr. Coonrod underscores the continuum of fighting hunger -- it's not just an isolated event, like the October week-end.

"We have to look at our own unconscious beliefs on hunger," he explains. "We trip over them otherwise! We make the unconscious assumption of scarcity (of money, time, love, food); the assumption that hunger is inevitable, which means we don't commit ourselves to work and, most pernicious of all, we assume there is no solution."

"Yet the hunger problem has been solved in 30 countries since the end of World War II -- through land reform, small farms, collectives, and so on."

6,000 Enrolled Here. The Hunger Project, in the Princeton area, began in January of this year. Among the founders are Toos van Genuchter, Laurie O'Neill, Joan Bartl, Jude Miller, Jennifer Guy, Joe Staton, Judy Townsend.

About 6,000 people in the Princeton area have now enrolled. Mostly, the word is spread by person-to-person contact, but there are also the information tables, staffed by people who give up a lunch hour.

In June, there was a gathering at the Unitarian Church, with talks by such groups as Bread for the World, Buckminster Fuller's "World Game" -- devoted to "livingry," in Fuller's phrase, instead of the "weaponry" of war games, and Trenton's Forum Project.

"Trenton has been abandoned by the supermarkets, so you have people on welfare taking taxis across town to buy food! The Forum Project set up food co-operatives, got money from some Princeton churches -- Nassau Presbyterian -- and is working on ways to help the little mom-pop neighborhood stores solve warehousing problems so they won't have to charge such high prices."

Princeton's Hunger Project also has been showing a John Denver film which, Dr. Coonrod says, "gets you beyond the horror and guilt." Arrangements for showing it may be made with Dr. Coonrod at 201-297-1938.

The Hunger Project meets at private homes on Monday nights, and those who are interested may call the above number to join.

Following the party, passengers will enjoy a ride through the Hunterdon countryside and return to Lambertville at approximately 8 p.m.

Tickets are available from society members or by writing to the Lambertville Historical Society, P.O. Box 2, Lambertville, N.J. 08530. They may also be purchased at the Villa Vito restaurant in New Hope; The Beauty Depot, Stockton; Hunt Real Estate office, Ringoes; Zanetti's Plumbing office, Flemington; Borough Clerk Lillian McHenry, Frenchtown. The price is $7.50 per ticket, which includes the train ride and hors d'oeuvres.

PLANS 25 NEW HOUSES

Firm Gets Approval. G.R.D. Associates of Princeton received unanimous Planning Board approval last week for 25 single-family homes arranged in a cluster development on property on the east side of Great Road East (also known as the New Great Road). The rear lots touch the rear of lots on Ridgeview Road.

The Planning Board set several conditions, but none involves a re-design of the plan. One detention basin is provided and although a sewer line goes through the property, no actual building can be done until the sewer moratorium imposed on Princeton by the state, has been further relaxed.

There is no requirement to construct either bikepaths or sidewalks, and the board does not want G.R.D. to widen or curb the Great Road. Open space is to be left for passive recreation. The technical recommendations of Killam Associates, drainage consultants for Princeton Township, were incorporated into the conditions.

NEW MANAGER NAMED

For Nassau Inn. Jeff Leif — pronounced "Leaf" — has been named by Restaurant Associates as the new manager of the Nassau Inn. He succeeds Mary Ann Von Verdo who resigned from the position because of what Restaurant Associates terms "a management disagreement philosophy."

She was not discharged, a firm spokesman emphasized.

Mr. Leif has been with Restaurant Associates for over ten years and has had responsibility for such restaurants as Charlie O and Charlie Brown's.

A resident of New City, N.Y. in Rockland County, Mr. Leif plans to move with his family to Princeton.

TO BUY HISTORIC HOUSE

For Realty Office. Anjita Blanc and Linda Carnevale of Princeton Crossroads Realty have contracted to buy the landmark house at the corner of Nassau and Harrison streets. The present owners are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Urdike.

Located in "Jugtown," the house dates back to the early 1700's and is said to have sheltered both British and American soldiers at various times. Princeton Crossroads Realty will use the main part of the house as its offices, but will preserve the building's historical character.

WINNERS LISTED

Of Prize Drawings. Robert and Henry Landau, owners of Landau's retail clothing store on Nassau Street, have announced the winners of a door prize drawing that was held each day of the first week of their annual summer sale.

From Princeton, Mary McCrohan won a wool blanket valued at $74, Mrs. Thomas Evans, a woolen jacket valued at $135 and Susan Diviaio a steamer coat with a retail value of $235.

Carolyn Klein of Hamilton Square won a woolen jacket ($145). Hope Rosenhaus, East Windsor, was the recipient of a $255 trench coat, and J. Stindreaux of Plainfield was the grand prize winner of a shearing jacket valued at $470. All the prize merchandise consisted of Icelandic goods.

FACT BOOK NOW 20

First Published in 1959. If you remember when Princeton had a telephone exchange named "Walnut" (the "WA" is analogous to the present "92"), you will remember 1959, and the first edition of the Princeton Area Fact Book.

The Lenhart Publishing Company, 22 Chambers, under R.L. ("Doc") Lenhart, is celebrating the 20th anniversary of that first Fact Book while its staff does research, editing and publication scheduling for the 20th anniversary edition. Lenhart is working in association with the Chamber of Commerce.

Also, starting July 9, Lenhart launched the Brunswick Area Fact Book, a guide to New Brunswick and its surrounding community, distributing to subscribers of the New Brunswick Home News.

The 68-page New Brunswick booklet lists recreation areas, restaurants, schools, churches, libraries and organizations, with brief history and description of neighboring communities complete with emergency telephone numbers, public officials and an index of the area's major roads. Non-subscribers to the Home News may obtain the booklet for $2.

In 1959, when the past, present and future of Princeton was presented in a 48-page booklet, there was no Chamber of Commerce; instead, the Princeton Business Association, with Loar C. Quickle as president, represented merchants in the community.

Officers of that 1959 Princeton Business Association were vice-presidents Jack Houghton, Theodore Reed, Benjamin Brown and Mr. Lenhart (he was secretary too) and treasurer Jack Yeoman.

Trustees were Murray Abelson, George Adriance, Paul Ashton, Fred Blaicher, Edward Clohossey, Edmund Cook, Warren Hult, Leonard LaPlaca, Joseph Redding, Orren Jack Turner, Lou Verbeyst, Arthur Yard and Merrill Zinder.

Among the original advertisers who made the Fact Book possible were TOWN TOPICS, the Princeton Packet, First National Bank, Princeton Bank & Trust, Skillman Furniture, Gulick Agency, Wine & Game, Sturhahn Dickenson & Bernard, Nassau Interiors, Cook Real Estate, LaVake's, Princeton Printing, University Store, K.M. Light, Hilton Realty, Clothes Line, Marsh & Co., J.B. Redding, Gene Seal Flowers, Nassau Savings, Peacock Inn, Silver Shop, Nassau Inn, Walter B. Howe, Bohren's, Landau, Brophy's.

Also, Princeton Decorating, H.P. Clayton, Hult's Shoes, Turney Motors, Allen's, Prep Shop, Nassau Rx, Rug Mart, Woolworth's, Adelman Real Estate, Applegate Floral, Princeton Tea Garden, Prince Chevy, Kopp's Cycle, Princeton Clothing, Flower Basket.

An original painting by Princeton artist Charles McVicker of the first inter-collegiate football game between Rutgers and Princeton — used as the cover illustration on the 1969 Princeton Area Fact Book — was given by Mr. Lenhart to Princeton University and hangs in Jadwin Gym.

EARNINGS ARE LOWER

At Applied Data Research. A decrease in quarterly earnings from 22 cents per share to one cent has been reported by Applied Data Research, the computer software firm based at the Route 206 Center. For six months, the comparable figures are 52 cents for the period ending June 30, 1978, and seven cents this year.

The drop was recorded despite a 39 percent increase in six-month revenues, John Bennett, president, said. These figures were $12,997,803 for the first six months of this year, and $9,351,696 through June 30 '78.

Mr. Bennett attributed the lower earnings to continued losses from the recently-acquired DATACOM Division and increased development expenses in the Software Productions Division at ADR. Based on the above results and possible effects of an economic downturn, the company has taken steps to reduce its rate of growth and expenses. Earlier profit projections for the year are also revised to a range of $1.15 per share, down from $1.41 in 1978.

In commenting on the outlook for the second half of 1979, Mr. Bennett said that revenues would continue to be strong and are anticipated to increase 30 percent over the second half of 1978. The DATACOM Division, although in a loss position during the second quarter, continued to improve in sales and earnings, and is expected to contribute to profits for the second half. The company's other software product sales are expected to continue in a strong position (up 26 percent during the first six months.).

Earnings per share for the second half of 1979 are expected to be in the range of $1.08 which would reflect an increase of 20 percent over the same period in 1978.

ACQUISITION MADE
Lenox Now Owns A.H. Pond. Lenox, Inc. of Lawrenceville has completed the previously announced acquisition of A.H. Pond Co., Inc., a leading supplier of diamond engagement rings marketed under the "Keep-sake" name.

OFFICERS ELECTED

At ARAP. Aeronautical Research Associates of 50 Washington Road has announced the elections of Dr. Brian Quinn of Princeton as President and Chief Operating Officer, Dr. Coleman duP. Donaldson of Princeton as Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer, Mrs. Lois A. Kratz of East Windsor as Secretary-Treasurer, and Dr. W. Stephen Lewellen of Hopewell as Vice-President, Fluid Mechanics Branch.

Dr. Quinn has retired from 14 years of government service, most recently as Director of Aerospace Sciences at the Air Force Office of Scientific Research in Washington, D.C. Dr. Donaldson has been president of ARAP since its founding in 1954. Mrs. Kratz has been with the company for ten years, the last four as Assistant Secretary-Treasurer.

Dr. Lewellen has been at ARAP for seven years in the Environmental Research Group.

Lenox, a manufacturer of dinnerware and giftware, jewelry and a broad line of other tabletop and related products, acquired all of the capital stock of A.H. Pond in exchange for 428,070 shares of its common stock. The acquisition will be treated as a "pooling of interests." A.H. Pond sales for the latest fiscal year were $33.3 million with net profits in excess of $1.2 million for the same period.

John S. Chamberlin, president and chief executive officer of Lenox, said, "A.H. Pond will be an autonomous, wholly-owned subsidiary of Lenox under the continued direction of its president, Richard P. Davis. We are looking forward to their contributing to Lenox earnings because of their anticipated future growth. This acquisition is an excellent addition to the company's other well-known quality lines, such as Lenox and ArtCarved."

Want to Serve on a Rent Study Group?

The Borough's five-year-old rent control ordinance may have influenced the amount — and condition — of rental property in ways that weren't anticipated when the ordinance was enacted, and Borough officials are setting up a citizens group to study the problem.

If you're interested in serving on a Rent Control Study Commission, you are invited to call Borough Hall at 924-3119, or write the Office of the Borough Clerk, Box 390, Monument Drive, Princeton. Seven people will be appointed.

The resolution passed by Council at last week's agenda session acknowledges that the shortage of housing in the Borough existed for many years before the rent ordinance was passed, "and is likely to continue for some years in the future" because it has been largely created by factors beyond the control of local government.

Council set up four items to be studied by the new commission: the operation of rent controls in the Borough, the influence of rent control on the amount and condition of rental property, ways the structure and operation of rent control might be improved, and whether there are ways other than rent control, for achieving the same purposes.

The commission is to report to Mayor Robert W. Cawley and Council by April 1, 1980. There is no salary, but members will be reimbursed for expenses.

Picketts, Princeton's First Team-Ministry, Are Now in Charge at Christ Congregation

The first team-ministry in a Princeton church began this month when the Rev. Margot T. Pickett and the Rev. Mark H. Pickett took up their duties at Christ Congregation on Walnut Lane.

There is a dual affiliation to Christ Congregation that makes it a particularly appropriate church in which to launch the concept of a husband-wife ministry. Christ Congregation started as Calvary Baptist Church in 1955, holding services in Westminster Choir College until it built its own modernistic stone building across the street in 1958. In the mid-60's, the church broadened its base to include the United Church of Christ and was renamed Christ Congregation.

Mark Pickett is ordained in the American Baptist Church, his wife in the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ). Both are graduates of Duke University and of Princeton Theological Seminary, Mark in 1977, Margot in 1978. They knew each other for five years at college and seminary before their marriage in 1977.

For the past two years they have served on the staff of a Presbyterian church in Ambler, Pa., where Mark took a post-graduate internship as minister of education and Margot was doing youth work as a seminarian. They also worked together as seminarians at another Presbyterian church in Basking Ridge.

Turned-Off By Church. Mark grew up in Albuquerque, N.M., and Margot in Indianapolis, Ind., and both had paternal grandfathers who were stalwarts in their respective churches. But, as Margot puts it, "neither of us learned from church what it is to be a Christian." Margot became involved in Young Life in high school and "got all fired up about the Bible and Jesus but not necessarily church."

Later, at Duke, she started out majoring in religion and psychology but soon dropped the psychology. Her interest was in Christian education, imparting the enthusiasm she had learned in high school. She remembers the advice she received from a professor at Duke's Divinity School with whom she discussed career goals.

He entreated her to go to seminary; otherwise, he said, "You will become just some minister's Girl Friday." She planned to go to seminary for just two years to get her D.R.E., but it became clear that she didn't want to be relegated just to Sunday School -- that it was important for her to become a full-fledged minister.

RELIGION In Princeton

Mark was also disillusioned by the church until sophomore year in college, when he and Margot were members of a folk Christian singing group. The group gave performances on tour, and he got an inside view of several different churches. He began to see that despite the shortcomings of many churches, there were many people in churches "who really care and live out their lives as God wills them to."

Originally an engineering major, he took an elective in religion and subsequently switched to liberal arts.

Margot says that Mark enjoys preaching more than she does and so will probably do two thirds to her one-third of that aspect of their joint ministry. Margot will give particular emphasis to the education programs, and both expect to take part jointly in pre-marriage counseling and officiating at funeral services.

The Very Rev. George V. Florovsky, 85, an eminent theologian of the Russian Orthodox Church who was a founder of the World Council of Churches, died August 11 at Princeton Medical Center. He lived at 4 Nassau Street.

Father Florovsky was born in Odessa, Russia and was graduated from the University of Odessa. During the Russian Revolution, he and his family sought refuge in Sofia, Bulgaria, where he joined a group of young Russian scholars and writers.

In 1921 he went to Prague, where he received a Master of Philosophy degree at the Russian University Center and published two books, "Foundations of Logical Relativism" and "Metaphysical Presuppositions of Utopianism." The following year he was instrumental in establishing a major Orthodox theological center in Paris, the St. Sergius Orthodox Theological Institute.

He was ordained a priest in Paris in 1932 by the most Rev. Metropolitan Eulogius. He also published two books there, "Eastern Fathers of the Fourth Century" and "Byzantine Fathers of the Fifth Through Eighth Centuries."

Long an active participant in the ecumenical movement, he was a member of the organizing committee of the World Council of Churches in the late 30's and attended all its subsequent assemblies. While living in Europe, Father Florovsky lectured at universities in England, France, Germany and Greece.

To the U.S. After the War. Emigrating to the United States in 1948, he joined the faculty of St. Vladimir Orthodox Seminary in New York, serving as its dean from 1951-55. During that period he also taught at Union Theological Seminary and Columbia University.

In 1955 he joined the faculty of the Holy Cross Greek Orthodox Theological Seminary in Brookline, Mass. and the next year became a professor of Eastern Church History at Harvard Divinity School. He was invited to join the faculty of Princeton University in 1964 and remained there until 1972, when he was invited to teach at Princeton Theological Seminary.

A fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and of the British Academy, he was a corresponding member of the Academy of Athens and a member of the American Historical Association, the American Society of Church History and the American Association for the Advancement of Slavic Studies.

Honorary degrees had been bestowed upon him by St. Andrews University in Scotland, Boston University, the University of Thessaloniki, Notre Dame University, St. Vladimir's Theological Seminary and Yale University.

Requiem liturgy was offered in St. Vladimir's Orthodox Catholic Church in Trenton. Burial was in St. Vladimir's Cemetery in Hamilton Township. Memorial contributions may be sent to the Father Florovsky Memorial Fund, in care of the Rev. Paul Shafran, 812 Grand Street, Trenton, 08610.

Hans F. Winterkorn, 73, professor of civil engineering and geophysics, emeritus, at Princeton University, died on August 7 in New York City. A pioneer in the study of the use of soils for construction purposes, Dr. Winterkorn was widely known as the father of that branch of science known as soil stabilization -- treating soils in order to make them more suitable for use as the base material for highways, airstrips and buildings.

Dr. Winterkorn was born in Mannheim, Germany, and received his doctorate in physical chemistry from the University of Heidelberg in 1931. He immigrated to the United States the same year and taught at the University of Missouri for 11 years prior to joining the Princeton faculty in 1943.

Soon after coming to Princeton he established the first Soil Mechanics laboratory to study engineering soil physics and soil stabilization. In the late 1940's, he discovered a method to transform an ocean beach into a firm landing area to prevent recurrences of losses suffered on the beaches of Iwo Jima in World War II. He made other discoveries in the area of soil mineralogy, which have been applied to highway construction and to the laying of underground power cables.

In 1957, Dr. Winterkorn received the highest civilian decoration conferred by West Germany, the Officer's Cross of the German Order of Merit, for his achievements in soil engineering, in education and in improvement of relations between European nations. Two international symposia related to soil engineering, in 1969 and 1971, were officially dedicated to Winterkorn for his contributions to the field.

The author of more than 160 technical articles in his field, Winterkorn was widely sought as a lecturer in the United States and abroad. He was particularly encouraging to a number of foreign students in the soil sciences who lived with the Winterkorn family while attending Princeton. Over the years these students became known as the "Winterkorn Sons" and maintained a lifelong friendship with the late professor.

Since his retirement from Princeton five years ago, Dr. Winterkorn had devoted himself to translating Baudelaire and to his favorite pastime of reading Latin. His home here had been at 116 Prospect Avenue.

Dr. Winterkorn is survived by his wife, the former Hazel Zumwalt; two sons, Erik G. of London, England, and Hans F. III of New York City; and a granddaughter.

A private funeral was held in New York. A memorial service will be held at 10 a.m., Saturday, September 29, in the Princeton University Chapel. Memorial contributions may be made to the Princeton University Library.

A TOWNHOUSE WITHOUT PEER designed and built by the legendary Steadman, this architectural gem is located on Mercer Street, one short block from Nassau Street — a perfect location in this gasless society. The rooms themselves, plus the decor, create an elegant ambience rarely experienced in Princeton. The first floor rooms, which have 11 foot ceilings, original moldings and pegged oak floors, include two living rooms, both with fireplaces; separate dining room; marvelously planned contemporary kitchen with new appliances and skylight. On the second floor, a library with bookshelves and fireplace, adjoins the master bedroom also with fireplace and master bath. On third, three bedrooms, two baths. At a lower level informal sitting room with quarry tile floor and fireplace, plus laundry and lavatory. Two-car garage, carefully tended walled garden. All in exquisite condition. $240,000

JOIN THE LANDED GENTRY by buying this sixty-nine acre parcel on the Moore's Mill-Mt. Rose Road in nearby Hopewell Township. Lovely rolling land with open meadows bordered by a natural forest on the East. Plus a real bonus — a six room house in need of work, but with great potential.

$230,000 or just over $3,000 per acre.

Princetonian Launches a Bed & Breakfast League, An 'Old World Idea Long Needed in This Country'

The ad was intriguing. It began: "Would you like to be part of a new national network of private homeowners who welcome selected travelers into their homes for a small fee?"

Appearing in the New Yorker magazine and the New York Times travel section, it announced The Bed & Breakfast League, "an old world idea whose introduction in America is long overdue," and it gave a Nassau Street address as the place to write for a host application.

The person behind this enterprising venture is a zestful 60-year old Princeton woman who has had over 700 replies in the three weeks since the ad first appeared in 10 publications across the country. It is also her first foray into business.

From an office on the fifth floor of 20 Nassau Street, Charlotte Taylor is launching The Bed & Breakfast League in two phases. The first, which she hopes to complete by November, is to locate prospective host homes -- hence the ad -- and to inspect and certify each one.

Essentially a membership organization, the League initially will be limited to the 15 greater metropolitan areas of Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Dallas-Ft. Worth, Denver-Boulder, Houston, Los Angeles, Miami-Ft. Lauderdale, Minneapolis-St. Paul, New York, Philadelphia, San Diego, San Francisco, Seattle and Washington, D.C. Once the host homes are all in place, the second phase will begin in early 1980, with a general advertising and publicity campaign announcing that the Bed & Breakfast League is ready to receive guest membership applications.

How It Works. Bed & Breakfast is a well-known tradition in hospitality in England and offers overnight accommodations and simple breakfasts in private homes for less than the going rate in a hotel. As Mrs. Taylor envisions it working in The League, host families will be carefully selected for their friendliness and helpfulness,

Charlotte Taylor

A Special Experience for Everyone Concerned

host homes for their convenience to city centers and public transportation and for the neatness and comfort of the spare bedroom.

Prospective hosts will fill out a four-page application listing personal and financial data, references, a full description of the accommodations and something of the interests of the family. The host home check list for inspection purposes takes note of bed sizes and the location of the bathroom and specifies opaque curtains at all the windows and sufficient closet and bureau space. If accepted, a host member pays a $35 annual membership fee, as does a guest member.

Prospective guests will also fill out an extensive membership application. When accepted, they will receive a directory of the host homes, including suggested rates, a listing of amenities and restrictions and a description of special features, but without the hosts' name, phone or street address.

A guest member planning a trip may call a toll free number to Mrs. Taylor's office and get the specific names and addresses. Arrangements are entirely between host and guest, although the League suggests a minimum and maximum of $14-20 for a single, $16-28 for a double. A host is under no obligation to accept a guest, nor a guest to stay at a home, if after a phone call it does not sound suitable.

Quality Counts. What Mrs. Taylor seeks is a special and memorable experience for everyone concerned. Last summer she stayed in a number of bed & breakfasts while driving alone from Scotland to London. Some were listed in a book, some were recommended by word of mouth. At one woman's home outside London, her hostess suggested the best way to get around London and when she came back had dinner waiting for her.

"These experiences were so heartwarming. The places were so neat and clean, and I felt so blessed. It expanded my awareness of that country and I saw things through their eyes. Their lives were richer, too, for opening their homes."

The idea that there ought to be similar opportunities in this country began to form in her mind and was reinforced by a trip she took in the fall through New Hampshire and Maine, again staying in homes of unknown friends of friends. She began to realize it could be possible here, that Americans were innately a friendly people, that this country has a fine heritage and much to be proud of, and that it would be good to be in touch with this again.

"I began by wanting people

News Of The THEATRES

AN EVENING WITH THREE

One-Act Plays. With unforeseen irony, Street Theatre has scheduled, as one of its trio of one-acters, a play called "Curtains," which explores the blame for the death of the theatre. Not, as one might expect, the demise of Street Theatre's own mobile stage, destroyed last month by fire, but the languishing of "theatre." Is it the critics who write scathing reviews, or actors who give poor performances?

Debbie Bellow, as director, will have Karen Schleyer, John Wible and Dave Hummel in the cast. "Curtains" is the first of the three plays which will be presented, starting this Wednesday, at locations listed below.

The second play, "Interview-Job," directed by Tina Arminio, is a revenge fantasy about a bitter woman who uses an attractive young man to carry out a plan of vengeance against another woman who has discriminated against her. Marion Sanders plays the part of the vengeful woman, Eileen Polonko is the other woman and Dave Hummel is the young man.

The final offering each evening will be "Please Call Me Sol," directed by Laurie Basch, in which a pair of elderly newly-weds wonder whether it's possible to love deeply, the second time around. Ellen Pearl and John Wible are the couple.

Sound and stage crew for the three one-acts will be Ken Junkins, Alex Kappas, Dan Pannucci and Sandra Hoedemaker. Props will be Marion Sanders, Karen Schleyer, Jason Mann, Dee Anna Corsover and Sandra Hoedemaker.

Costumes co-ordinator is Nancy Berman, assisted by Sandra Corsover and Jennifer Mann. House crew will be Jason Mann, Jennifer Mann and Dee Anna Corsover. Stage managers are Cyndi Savage and Sherri Pignona.

All performances are at 8 p.m. except those at Lloyd Terrace and Redding Terrace where curtain-time is 7:30. The schedule:

Wed., Aug. 15, Lloyd Terrace; Thurs., Aug. 16, Holly House, PCV; Fri., Aug. 17: Maurice Hawk School (West Windsor); Sat., Aug. 18: Riverside School; Sun., Aug. 19: Palmer Square; Thurs., Aug. 23: Littlebrook School; Fri., Aug. 24: Redding Terrace; and Sat., Aug. 25: Princeton High School.

SEASON ENDS

With Double Bill. "Carnal Knowledge" and "Cousin, Cousine" on a double bill will bring to a close the 1979 Summer Cinema season for McCarter.

Both films will be shown in Kresge Auditorium starting next Wednesday, August 22, and continuing through Sunday, August 26. "Carnal Knowledge" will be shown at 7:30 and "Cousin, Cousine" at 9:15 on Wednesday, Thursday and Sunday evenings. On Friday and Saturday, respective show-times will be 8 and 9:45.

When "Carnal Knowledge" was released in 1971, it was a landmark: the first American film to deal with sex in the liberated '70s. The script, by humorist Jules Feiffer, records the lives of two college friends (Art Garfunkel and Jack Nicholson) who move from sex-starved college students to sexually bewildered adults over a 20-year period, aided and abetted by Candice Bergen and Ann-Margaret as the women in their lives.

"Cousin, Cousine" was the unexpected foreign film hit of 1976-1977. It has been described as an old-fashioned love story in the finest French tradition with a lyric, comic and healthy approach to love and sex. Marie-Christine Barrault and Victor Lanoux star.

Meanwhile, "Cabaret" and "Seven Beauties" are on view and will continue through this Sunday.

HELD OVER...

"The Matchmaker," Summer Intime is so pleased with audience response to "The Matchmaker" that it's extending the run of the Thornton Wilder comedy through this Sunday. Murray Theatre on the University campus, is the place; 8 p.m. is curtain-time (except for the 2:30 Sunday matinee).

This is the play from which the musical, "Hello, Dolly!" was made, and that's why the plot sounds somewhat familiar. It's about mean, old Horace Vandergelder (William Kepper) and the matchmaker Dolly Levy, who finagles and manipulates so that she can catch the old miser for herself. Mrs. Levy, in this production, is Laura Halper.

TOWN TOPICS' reviewer had particular praise for the supporting cast, including Len Galla, Wendy Saivetz, Nancy Bleemer, Michele Ferber, Margaret Snow, John Whitesell II, Alan Langdon, Celeste Clark and Richard Maynard.

Director Dale Coye has pointed the farce's wild side, the reviewer found, and has "masterfully" used music at the beginning of each act to heighten the general zaniness. "Matchmaker" reservations may be made at 452-8181.

A Song in 'Oklahoma!' Truly Reflected Weather Conditions at Open Air Theatre

When Curly came to that line in the "Oklahoma!" song that goes "...don't stand in the rain with me," the Open Air Theatre audience burst into loud applause. It was drizzling at the time, and when the first act ended, it began to pour and everybody scurried home.

The "Oklahoma!" production of Princeton Community Players made it through four and one-half nights of its scheduled six nights at the Washington Crossing Theatre. (The half night was the one when everybody left in the middle.)

Opening night — Thursday, August 2 — was rained out. Friday was that half-night. The first Saturday and Sunday were good, dry nights with good attendance.

Then the second week, it all began again. Thursday and Friday were dry, but Saturday was too wet. And Sunday, the traditional "rain date" for Open Air Theatre, was rained out for fair.

Community Players made more than production costs, got the guaranteed $3,000 from the theatre and netted "a couple of thousand," according to director Roo Brown.

At the cast party Sunday — held indoors, needless to say — actors agreed: "Being in 'Oklahoma!' just made my summer!"

ALBEE PLAY SET

By Twilight Theatre. The Princeton Twilight Theatre will present Edward Albee's "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" this Friday and Saturday at 8.

It will be given at The Cloister Inn, 65 Prospect Avenue, across from Princeton University's Third World Center and near the Prospect-Olden intersection. No admission will be charged, although a suggested donation of $2 will be accepted at the door.

The Twilight Theatre company was founded in 1975 by a group of college students who hoped to present classic theatre in experimental productions. In 1975 and 1976, the group produced such varied fare as Aristophanes' "The Congresswoman," "The Fantasticks," Moliere's "Tartuffe" and Tennessee Williams's "Glass Menagerie."

The production of "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" continues in this tradition of workshop productions. Featured in the play are Judy Applegate and Nick Halpern as Martha and George, and Cathy Oates and Hank Stratton as Honey and Nick. The play is under the direction of Richard Carlin.

VACATION TIPS

I heard that the Antarctic is slowly melting and raising the oceans of the world. I'm not sure that New Jersey is still out of water but from the response we've had it's either that or everyone has been on an extended "Tea Time." Hello? Princeton and Mercer County... are you still there? Yes? Well then, in case you've missed our last four GREAT weekly tidbits we thought you'd like to know that Maine will be one of the last places the waters will inundate. To be sure we've added several late August and September mountain trips and Clayton will come along as he is a licensed real estate broker. You might want to consider a high water retreat.

Even Betty Grant has been selling real estate while Clayton has been practicing short hops to the mountain lakes in his seaplane. Someone is still at Woodland Camps to answer the telephone until the end of October (207-495-2251) while Helen Neath waits at Kuller Travel to fill your every travel dream (924-2550).

Jack Carlton's horses are getting fat including the expectant one and he has had time to plan his fall art course at the University of Maine. Eric Winslow Cobb is practicing his "J" and guide stroke while Joel Schulman and David Wilson have been playing tennis and paddle tennis together daily. Yesterday Ginnie Geyer passed overhead in her balloon and I could see her two "golden retrievers."

You know, this has to be the most peaceful place — warm sunny days and yesterday I had a chance to get my hunting guns oiled. A car came into camp and for a moment I thought we had a customer, but darn it, the driver had made a wrong turn.

Hello, Mercer County, are you still there? I tried to phone you but all I got was a gurgle. Well, maybe it's time to take the Cobb Associates to higher ground.

Next week: Jack Carlton's Fall Riding trips.

THEATRE JOINS UNION

Hailed as "Major Step," following negotiations with Actors Equity Association, the George Street Playhouse, professional theater in New Brunswick, has become the newest member of the League of Resident Theaters (LORT). With the opening of the 1979-80 season, the Playhouse will operate for the first time on a full LORT Contract with the performers union.

"This is a major step for us," commented George Street Producing Director Eric Krebs. "We have now reached the plateau at the end of a five-year formative period when we can really say we've achieved a measure of stability. Of course the new contract will mean a great deal more money in actor's salaries, and we will have to hustle to fill many more seats."

Under the LORT contract, performers are permitted to do up to eight performances a week. During the last season the Playhouse averaged six performances per week. "We have several new subscription series to fill, including three new Tuesday nights for each play," said Managing Director John Herochik.

"Three years ago, we worried if we had four performances a week to fill. Now we will have at least seven each week."

The sixth George Street Playhouse season opens on October 5 with "Tobacco Road," based on the novel by Erskine Caldwell. On December 14, "Jacques Brel" will be the offering. It is a bitter sweet musical cabaret based on the songs of the Belgian composer.

February 22 will see the opening of "Hedda Gabler" by Hendrich Ibsen, and the final offering will be Noel Coward's comedy "Private Lives" opening March 28.

Two plays are still to be chosen; one of these will be a world premiere by an American playwright.

Subscription information may be obtained by calling the Playhouse at (201) 846-2895 or by writing the George Street Playhouse, 414 George Street, New Brunswick, N.J. 08901.

MUSICALS BOOKED

At Bucks County Playhouse, Lerner and Loewe's Scottish musical, "Brigadoon," is playing at the Bucks County Playhouse in New Hope through August 19. Set in the highlands of Scotland, it contains such familiar songs as "Waitin' for my Dearie," "The Heather on the Hill," "I'll Go Home with Bonnie Jean," "Come to Me, Bend to Me" and "There But for You Go I."

Featured in the production are Scott Glading and Terry Boyle as Tommy and Fiona. Other major roles are played by Bob Taylor, Karyl Leigh, Buddy Rudolph, Dave Whiteman, Liz Rowland, Wayne Snover, Richard Terrell, Jenny Steitz and Margo Clifford. The show was directed by Newton Gilchrist and choreographed by Kristine Eubank.

The scene shifts from Scotland to Siam on August 21 when Rogers and Hammerstein's musical "The King And I" arrives. Among the songs are "Getting to Know You," "We Kiss in a Shadow," "Shall We Dance?" "I Whistle a Happy Tune" and "Hello, Young Lovers."

The roles of Anna and The King of Siam will be played by Terry Boyle and Robert E. Parrish. The unhappy young lovers, Tuptim and Lun Tha, will be played by Roselyn Gertman and Michael Kutner. Other featured players are Nancy Jackson, Jim Case, John Mitchell, Jim Colofrancon, Scott Stearns, and Mark Roccogranti. The show will be directed by Ruth Kalatucka, who also staged last season's productions of "The Music Man" and "The Sound of Music." Choreography is by Kristine Eubank.

For information regarding season subscriptions and theatre party group discounts, telephone (215) 862-2041. The Playhouse is on its summer schedule with performances Tuesday through Friday evenings at 8:30, Wednesday matinees at 2, Saturday at 5 and 9 and Sunday at 2 and 7:30.

One of the most unbelievable performances in the history of sports was by tennis star Helen Wills who — incredibly — NEVER LOST A MATCH, AND NEVER LOST EVEN A SET during 6 YEARS of play in major tournaments all over the world....Miss Wills compiled that amazing streak between 1927 and 1933 — and that's a feat that's never been duplicated in world-class tennis.

THREE TIED AT 69

In Springdale Tournament. Three scores of 69, based on full handicaps, were recorded Saturday at Springdale Golf Club in the first round of the Harry Kinnell Tournament. Rain the next day forced postponement of the final round until this Saturday.

The trio tied at two under par were Harold Crane, who shot an 86 with a 17 handicap; Jim Litvack, who toured the first nine in par 35 and finished with a 76 less 7; and Irving Shaffer, whose 29 handicap reduced his 98 to a tie with the others. Defending champion Mike Curtin, who plays to 25, could do no better than a net 83.

Those in the 36-hole medal play event who stood at 79 or better after the first round were (handicaps in parentheses): Craig Davis (8), Dick Schranz (15), Wilbur Young (17), Fred Short (16) and Bob Hargraves (10), all at 73; Bill Paine (10), Mickey Shannon (19) and Woodrow Wirsig (14), all at 74.

NASSAU SWIMMERS WIN

Margin Is Big. Nassau Swimming Club continued its domination of the Princeton Area Swimming and Diving Association league with a convincing 539-point total in the Age Group Championships at Community Park Pool's short course (25 yd.) facility. Cranbury finished a distant second (408) and Community Park was third (322). The meet was halted on Friday night because of threatening weather and was resumed Saturday morning.

In the 17-under individual medley, Nassau girls took first-second-third in the finals, as Abby Harris set a new championship record to win in 1:06.4; Barb Van Horn was second, and Ann Healy third. Other winners for Nassau were: Susan Harris (girls 14-u freestyle, 26.398); Bridget Mahoney (girls 10-u backstroke, 17.462); Pierre Maman (boys 14-u backstroke, 30.0); Richard Bolster (boys 8-u breaststroke, 20.4); and Barb Van

Second place finishers for Nassau were: John Cummings (boys 10-u dive and 10-u breast); Susan Harris (girls 100 open); Richard Bolster (boys 8-u 1M); John Healy (boys 14-u 1M and 14-u breaststroke); Nan Webb (girls 6-u freestyle); Steve Feldkamp (boys 14-u free); Yuka Manabe (girls 14-u back); Abby Harris (girls 17-u fly and back); Shelley Chu (girls 10-u breaststroke); John Bolster (boys 12-u breast); and Bridget Mahoney (girls 10-u fly).

The strong showing by the Nassau relay teams among the top three finishers resulted in 178 relay points which clinched the championship title for the fifth straight year.

In dual meet competition the previous week against Cranbury, Nassau lost the final relay and meet, 156-152. Dual winners for Nassau were: John Bolster, Alison Fraker and Abby Harris. The defeat was the first for Nassau in PASDA competition in five years.

FINALS UNDERWAY

In Women's Softball. Conte's Bar defeated Koffee Kup, 2-1, in the deciding game of the best-of-three semifinals, thereby earning the right to meet league-champion Sweet Jersey Corn in the playoff finals of the Princeton Women's Softball League.

With the score tied at 1 going into the last half of the seventh, Conte's Cathy Burrough singled to left center and continued to third as the ball got by the fielder for a costly error. That left it up to Claire Johnston, who drove in the winning tally with a single to left.

Earlier, it was a walk that gave Conte's its first run. Kim Cromwell had opened the third for Conte's with a single which was followed by a walk to Di Di Stenard. A fly ball out, and a fielder's choice moved Stenard to third and Laine Ivan's double to left brought in the first run of the game.

The Kup was unable to score until the top of the sixth, when Cathy Rice reached first on an error, moved to third on Jayme Edwards's hit, and scored after an infield fly was caught and the throw to home went wild. It was the Kup's inability to hit winning pitcher Cathy Buttough (17 of the 21 outs were recorded by Conte's infield) that resulted in the losers' first elimination from the finals in four years.

Slow-pitch, noted more for its hitting and high scores, has not witnessed a more classic defensive struggle than this since the women's league began back in 1976. For Conte's, it was a sensational triumph.

Only four players remained from last season's squad that finished behind the Kup and Jersey Corn. The infusion of new talent with the remaining veterans, a new coaching staff and Conte's now finds itself in the same underdog position that was shared by last year's playoff champions, Sweet Jersey Corn.

Shutout For Corn. Sweet
Jersey Corn shut out Conte's Bar, 4-0, in the opening game of the playoff championship Monday, running its winning streak to nine. Costly errors by Conte's made the going easy for Corn in its bid for a second straight playoff crown.
The victors scored three runs in the third inning, two coming on singles by Holly Light and Pam Carone, with four errors added by shaky Conte's defense. The third run was forced in as Liz Hoffman walked with the bases loaded.

In the bottom of the sixth, Corn scored again as Karen Smith blooped a single over third, went to second on a force play, and came in when Holly Light lined a single to right. Conte's finally managed its first hit of the game in the fifth inning.

For outfielder Light, it was a busy game, as she was credited with seven catches, one coming on a sparkling shoe-string grab in the sixth, when she made all three putouts.

Since its inception in 1961, the program has drawn millions of youngsters into competition for trophies, an appearance on national television and an opportunity to have their names inscribed on the PP & K plaque at the Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio.

To register, youngsters between the ages of 8 and 13 should visit Nassau-Conover Motors on Route 206 at Cherry Valley Road and be accompanied by a parent or guardian. A free PP & K tips book is given to each entrant. There is no fee and contestants compete only against others their own ages. There is no body contact and no special equipment is needed. Scoring is based on distance and accuracy.

Ford dealerships will announce dates and locations for local competitions. This year local competitions can be scheduled between September 21 and September 30.

First place winners at the local level move on to zone competition, and winners there qualify for district competition. Rounds four and five — area and divisional competitions — will be held at National Football League games.

By the time divisional contests are held, the number of contestants will have been reduced to 168, one in each age group 8 through 13 representing each of the 28 NFL teams.

Divisional competitions will take place December 16 at Houston (American Football Conference winners) during the Tampa Bay-Kansas City game.

The 12 divisional champions, six from the NFC and six from the AFC will compete for the 1979 national PP & K championship at Super Bowl XIV on January 20, 1980, in Pasadena, Calif.

5 MILE RUN SET

For Muscular Dystrophy. A five-mile run to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association will be held Saturday, September 1, at 10 on the Mercer County Community College cross country course in West Windsor Township.

The run, "The First Annual Love Run," co-sponsored by MCCC and 7-Eleven stores is timed to coincide with the Jerry Lewis Telethon in the fight against Muscular Dystrophy. Prizes will include plaques to the winners of the 20 and under, 20 to 40 and over 40 age groups and medals to the second and third place finishers in each category.

"Love Run" T-shirts will be given to all pre-entrants who sign up by August 27, and refreshments and shower facilities will be available in the MCCC gym after the race. The course consists of a 1.2 mile wood chip exercise trail, grass, dirt roads and some asphalt road with no significant hills.

Entry fee is $5. For an entry form call Paul Brady, 585-2772 or Al Leister, 586-4800, ext. 451. Post-entries will be accepted until 9 a.m. the day of the race in front of the MCCC gym on the West Windsor campus.

to know how connected they are all to each other," she notes. It's the warm things about people that you remember from a trip - not the inanimate castles and cathedrals, although they are fun too. People are different and have different customs and cultures in different regions, but essentially we are all the same."

Mrs. Taylor sees her venture as a way "we can do something about the incredible high cost of everything which limits people and changes their lives." Hosts have an opportunity to make a little extra money on the spare bedroom and travellers the satisfaction of knowing they are spending less than half of what they would in a hotel or motel.

She also likes the "Small Is Beautiful" idea that nothing new has to be built, that accommodations already exist, in some cases just waiting to be used, and that staying in a family atmosphere can't help but expand one's life in all kinds of intangible ways. "There are all kinds of bottom lines," Mrs. Taylor thinks.

Sought Advice. "I also want it to be financially sound," she says, and if it is good and done in the right way, then it will be." In starting her venture, Mrs. Taylor has sought and received advice from a number of sources, notably Erik Utne, founding editor of New Age magazine, whom she says is a "network person" with numerous connections. Mr. Utne is chief consultant to The Bed & Breakfast League and composed the letters that are now going out to the 700 who replied to the ad.

As preparation for the new venture, she also enrolled in Robert Schwartz's two-week School for Entrepreneurs in Tarrytown, N.Y. The climax of the session was a presentation to a representative from a Wall Street venture capital firm by each participant of his or her projected enterprise. Mrs. Taylor said she found she wasn't a typical entrepreneur, but in a television interview during the session, she spoke of something she had learned in About Charlotte Taylor.....

Charlotte Taylor lived in Rochester, N.Y., as the wife of a lawyer and mother of five until a painful divorce some 12 years ago. There ensued a long period of searching for greater self-identity and awareness through such things as est, Esalen and the Eureka Institute. When she came to Princeton 10 years ago, she was one of the founders of the Erewhon School, an experiment in alternative education that lasted only a year..

Some of her earlier volunteer efforts, while still married, were in serving on the hospital board and as co-chairman of a United Nations Association Drive. Her youngest son, Peter, now 23, was born with Down's Syndrome, and she has given much time to the Bancroft School in Haddonfield and was one of the founders of the Bancroft Community in Mullica Hill, where Peter now lives. She and Peter plan a 10-day trip to Israel together at the end of this month.

Feeling more rooted now in Princeton, Mrs. Taylor has joined the Trinity choir, was one of the founders of the Holistic Health Association and gives workshops in self-awareness and in death and dying.

her work with the terminally ill as a friend of Elizabeth Kubler-Ross.

"The hardest thing people have to face is their regrets at not having done all they wanted to with their lives," Mrs. Taylor said. "I found myself saying in that interview, 'Do it now,' as a message not for anyone else but one I needed to hear. When I waver, I'll remember that."

SPACE AVAILABLE

In Two-Year-Old Program. A limited number of openings is still available in the two-year-old class at the University-N.O.W. Day Nursery, a private, non-profit day care center at 171 Broadmead.

The basic aims of the class are to create a warm and caring extended-family environment in which children can develop social and verbal skills and grow in self-sufficiency. The teachers and aides seek to provide learning experiences in which all aspects of a child's growth - intellectual, emotional, and physical - are seen as equally important, and in which each child can comfortably learn in his or her own way and pace.
